HOLY TRINITY COVENTRY

Organ transplant
in the heart of Coventry...

Why does Holy Trinity need a new organ?

The offering of uplifting and inspiring choral music has served the people of this city for many years. Music is a vital part of the full life of the Coventry City Centre church; it moves and inspires many. Much of this relies totally on accompaniment by an organ with a wide range of tonal colours. The 19th century Forster & Andrews pipe organ which was buried deep in a chamber on the south side of the church was in a terminally poor state. Organists struggled weekly to maintain the quality we desire in our worship. Many of its functions were unreliable, many stops unusable. We were advised by several leading organ experts that it had come to the end of its useful life. It was therefore dismantled and replaced with a temporary digital instrument.

Our History

This great medieval parish church of Coventry with its lofty spire stands alongside the ruins of St. Mary's Abbey, reduced to rubble with remarkable haste during Henry VIII's dissolution of the monasteries. The neighbouring Cathedral Church of St Michael was destroyed by incendiary bombs during the Blitz of 1940. Canon Clitheroe, Vicar of Holy Trinity, and his faithful church members, toiled through the night, battling to prevent Holy Trinity from succumbing to the same fate. We give God thanks for the survival of our beautiful church in the heart of Coventry. It lives on to serve the city and its people into the 21st century.

Organ transplant in the heart of Coventry

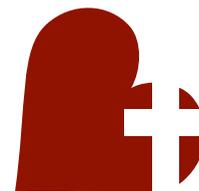

A grade one historic organ built by Harrison & Harrison has been secured and can be transplanted to Holy Trinity to be given a new lease of life.

In order to transplant this organ from a closed church in the north of England, we need to pull out all the stops and find £600,000 as soon as possible!

You can help us transplant this organ

Help us protect our heritage. Give the church an instrument worthy of providing music for the next generations....services, concerts, events, choir, weddings and major festivals: Easter, Remembrance Sunday and Christmas.

Will you join us in our 'Pipe Dream'?

Every generation has a chance to leave a glorious legacy. By supporting the rebuilding of the Organ today, you are helping to secure the future of our musical tradition. By buying one or more pipes, your name or the name of someone in whose memory you would like to donate, will be recorded on a certificate which will be sent to you. An entry in the book of donations will be kept in perpetuity close to the new organ.
